

Animal Groups

Cut the animals out from the table below. Your job is to sort the animals into groups using different categories. You may divide the animals into egg-layers and animals that don't lay eggs. Or you may divide the animals into those that live above or below ground or in water or on land. If you're extra clever you may use reptiles, mammals, amphibians or birds as your categories. After you have sorted them copy your groups into your book. Make sure you label each group. Then divide the animals into other groups using different categories.
