

Attention: Primary and secondary teachers of English, Art, Science and Society and Environment

SA Water is calling all creative Writers, Artists & Poets of all year levels!!
FREE ACTIVITIES - BOOK NOW!

Presented as part of the SA Water Brainwave

A published anthology of student work

Students research one of the five key areas below and produce a literary or artistic piece to demonstrate their learning. Selected work will be published in an anthology!

1. Water has unique physical and chemical characteristics
2. Water is precious and essential for all life to exist
3. Water connects all Earth systems
4. Water resources exist within social constructs
5. Water resources exist within cultural contexts

Deadline for submissions – July 29

For entry conditions and other special offers visit www.sawater.com.au/education.

Entries will be displayed during National Water Week, Term 4, Week 1 (October 17-21) at State Library of SA and Art Gallery of SA.

Participate in Professional Author Workshops to stimulate ideas for the student anthology

Introduce your class to the world of writing and stimulate their creative ideas with renowned authors Phil Cummings and Janeen Brian.

When Term 1, Week 11 (April 11-15)

Where State Library of SA

Duration 90 minutes

Cost Free (Bookings Essential)

Workshop Bookings

State Library of SA

Ph: 08 8207 7292

Email: marketing@slsa.sa.gov.au

General Program Enquiries

SA Water

Ph: 08 7424 1305

Email: library@sawater.com.au

Teachers and students are encouraged to join the Wacky Blog for updates, hints and tips
<http://wackystickythang.wordpress.com/>

This program is the result of a partnership between SA Water and DECS. It is part of Outreach Education, a team of DECS teachers based in public organisations.
